

Conflicting Rights

Can you decide whose rights should come first in each of these cases?

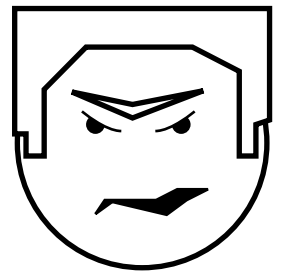

Granny Sleepeasy vs Party Paul

Granny Sleepeasy likes an early night and a nice quiet street; Party Paul has just moved in next door and loves nothing more than throwing a party. How can they reconcile their differences?

Politician Pam vs Racist Ron

Pam, whose grandparents come from Pakistan, is standing for election to the local council. Ron is a voter in her district and doesn't want to be represented by a non-white councillor. Whose rights should take precedence?

Journalist Jon vs Musician Martha

Jon is a newspaper reporter who has discovered that Martha used to date another famous person before either of them were famous. Martha doesn't want her private life to become public knowledge. Does Jon have a right to publish his discovery, or does Martha have a right to privacy?
